

Commissions and General Information:

General Inquiries:

- You may share and use my work as much as you like on social media, but you must credit me as the artist. Modification and plagiarism of my work is strictly forbidden. If you have any other questions or want to go beyond sharing with regards to my art, don't hesitate to contact me at my email (charlesta58@gmail.com).

Commissions:

- To request a commission from me, simply email me with your name, email, and desired subject/specifics of what you wish for me to draw. I am open to creating artwork in all genres and for both children and adults, though I am most inclined to do work that centers around science fiction, fantasy, and environmentalist or philosophical topics. I will not, however, create artworks depicting nudity or excessive gore and violence.
- I charge an hourly wage for commissions, though the total cost and the hourly wage of said commissions are negotiable, subject to change on a project by project basis, and dependent on the amount of time I believe it will take for me to complete your request, and the detail/complexity required for said project.

Note: All payments are conducted through Paypal.

Total cost of commission = Hourly rate x number of hours spent working.

- Sketches: $15 an hour.
- Singular black and white drawings: $20 an hour.
- Singular full color drawings: $25 an hour.
- Longer projects (i.e multiple drawings or story-based creations) are $25+ an hour, with the amount increasing if the use of color is requested, or if more detailed artwork is needed.

- Payment procedure is as follows: The customer pays 50% of the total amount due for one project if I accept their commission, then the other 50% after I notify them when the project is complete. Prior to working on the final product(s), I will send the customer preparatory sketches that they can choose their commission from.

Important: The final artworks (and sketches) I create will be sent by email in the form of jpg files, or, upon request, png files. As I primarily am interested in creating digital art and digital pieces, I cannot accept requests for creating physical art, nor provide physical products, at this time.

- If a customer wishes to cancel a commission before I begin (within a day or two after the commission has been accepted), I will issue you a refund. If I cannot start on a commission for whatever reason, a refund will also be issued. However, if I have already started on a commission and the customer decides to cancel it, they will receive either only a partial refund (if the cancellation request occurs early in the project—i.e. during the sketching phase) or no refund at all (if the cancellation request is received by the end of the project).
- If a customer wishes for me to make changes to an artwork in progress, they will be charged a fee depending on how much they want changed. Slight modifications will incur lower fees than requests to redo whole sections of a project. Requests for me to do over a customer's request will result in the customer being charged an amount approximately half of the total cost of the commission, depending on the hourly wage. As an example, if I were to do a simple sketch, and took four hours to complete it ($$15 \times 4 = \60), but the customer requested that I redo it all over, they would be charged an extra $30 for the sketch.
- Upon completion of a project/a customer's request, the customer may share and promote the project on social media or on any website. However, they may not commercialize it themselves, pass it off as their own without crediting me, or alter it in any way. I retain all copyright/ownership of my work, and can post it on social media at my own discretion. I will not profit from the work any more following completion, though, and the customer retains intellectual property rights.
- The terms I have described above are subject to change as my work continues to evolve and/or if I decide to update my commissions policy. I can assure you as the customer that you will not be disappointed in my work.
